We would like to thank the members of the review team, Tracey Wheeler of Dixie State University, Aaron Popham number of applicants each admission round (three times a year with applications due (Sept. 15 for spring admission; Jan. 15 for summer admission; and May 15 for fall admission).

Low graduation rates in M.Ed. program since beginning the licensing (post back) tracks.

With a dual track, students need a clear process for advising. A single office advisor may not be sufficient for this need (Standard D: b).

Although the program director does a majority of the advising, maybe it was not clear to the review committee that the administrative assistant does some advising as well, especially in the initial stages of whichever program the student is pursuing. Additionally, those who are licensing receive advising from the Student Teaching Coordinator and the advisor in charge of licensing after student teaching is completed.
